

The OML method of learning

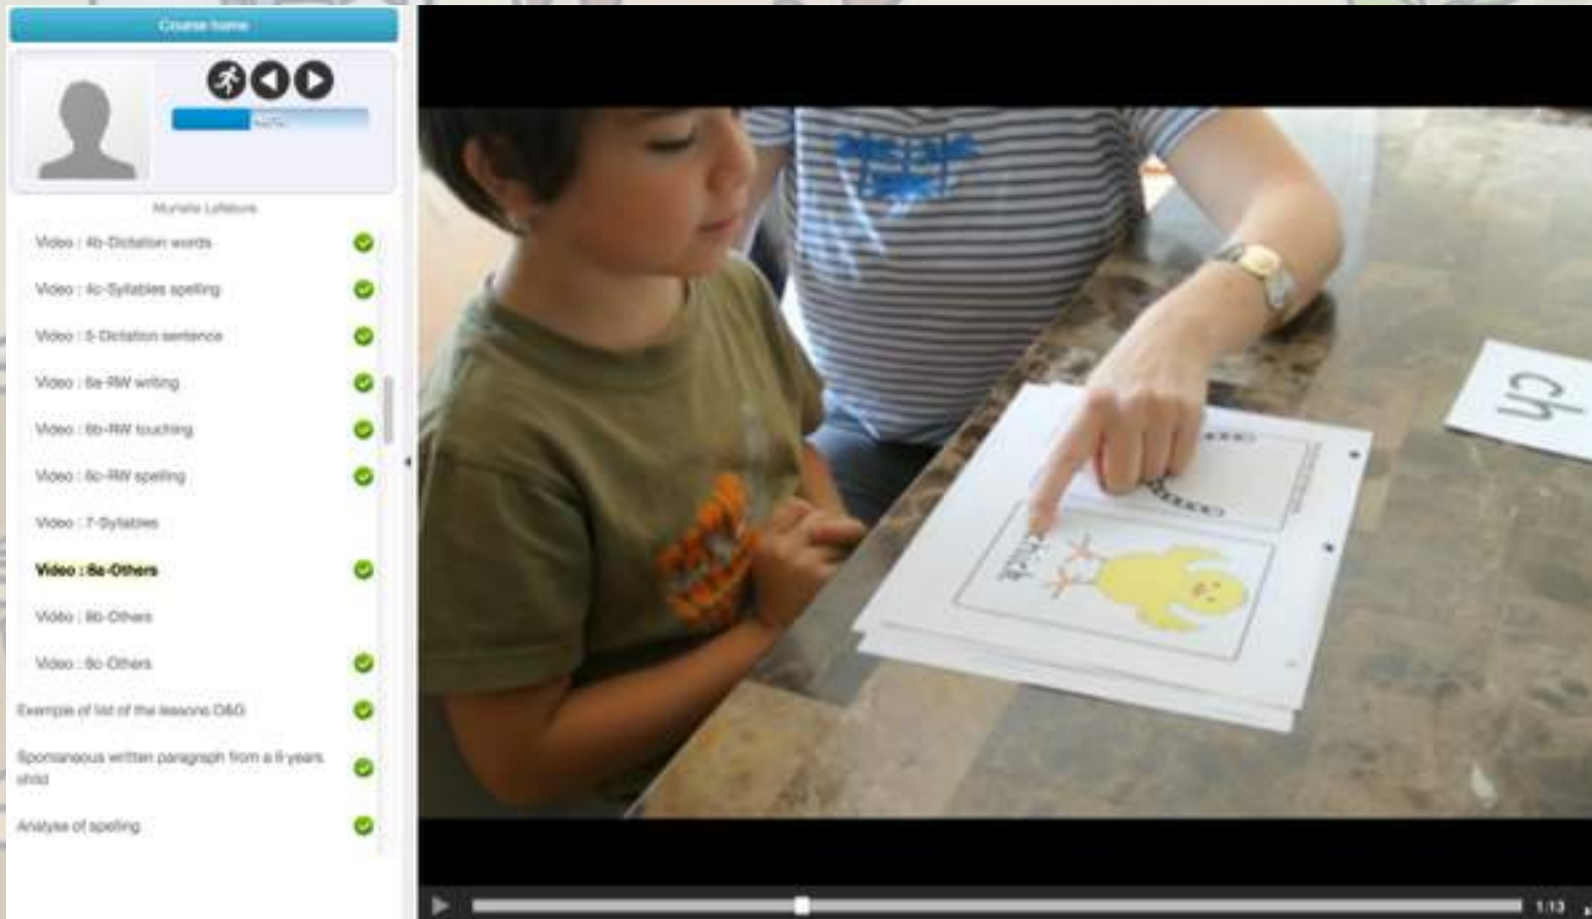

Created by Murielle Lefebvre in 2015, the OML method was developed to learn and teach languages in a multi-sensory way.

This method is based on the experience of practice in schools for over a century all over the world.

Finally a method to learn and understand the language through sensory tools!

The OML method is an online training and study course that you can take from home.

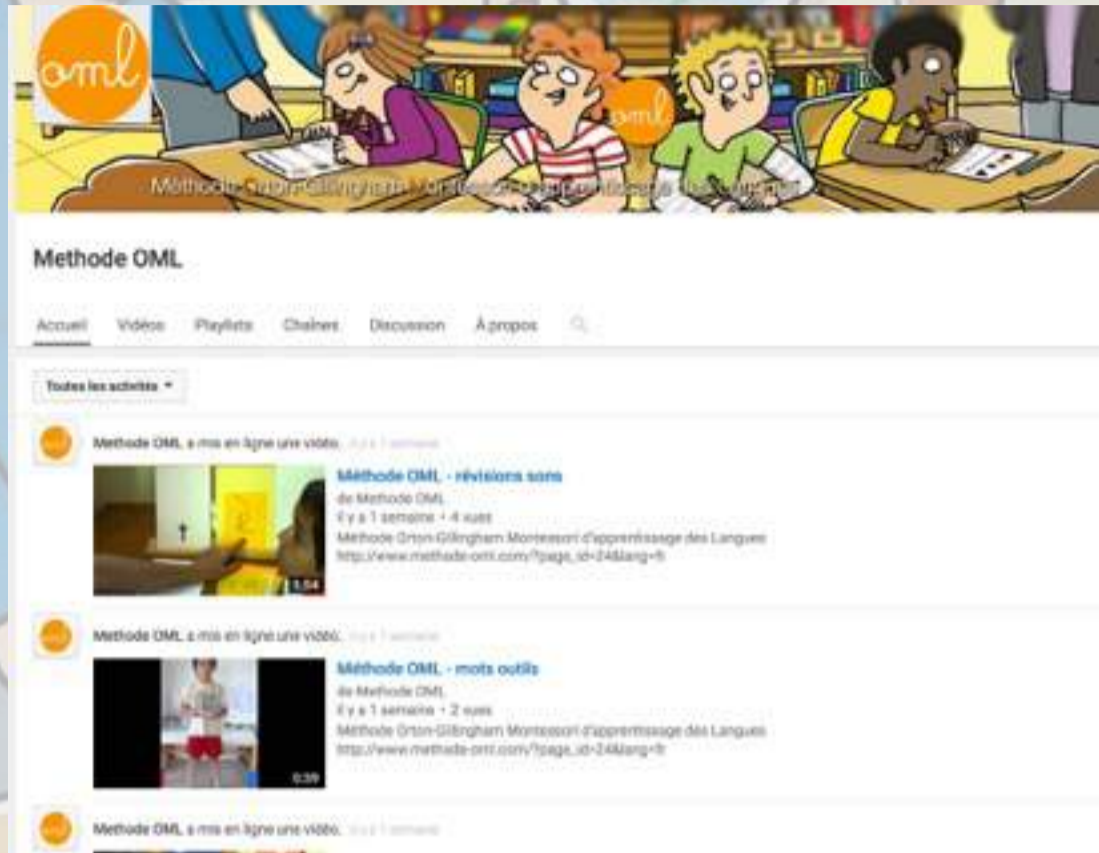

Since 2014, 350 people have gone through the online training platform created by Murielle Lefebvre.

This new platform is more than ever built around videos to accelerate and facilitate language learning with the OML method.

The OML method offers a series of progressive workbooks for children.

The OML method is also a Youtube channel

The OML method contains hundreds of videos.
